RECEPTION OF HON. J. J. CRITTENDEN, To-Day, at 2:15 P. M.,

> AT THE LOUISVILLE DEPOT.

The venerable Senator from Kentucky will arrive on the Louisville train to-day. All who desire to honor our distinguished guest are requested to be at the Depot at TWO O'CLOCK P. M.

Our Reporter Goes to the Kentucky State Fair.

The following telegraphic despatch from our traveling reporter was written in the composing-toom Saturday night, on the back of a proof-sheet, and ought to have been issued, in justice to the public, in an extra yes-will form on South Market Street; Right resting on the terday morning; but it was n't. WE START TO THE FAIR.

A rumor having obtained currency in this city last week that the Kentucky State Fair was going on at Bowling-Green, seventy-one miles up the Railroad, and that STEPHEN A. BRECKINEIDGE and JOHN C. DOUGLAS (not to Taylor, A. G. Ewing, W. W. Shute, A. C. Nichol, W. mention, "in the hurry of the moment," a H. Ewin. Joe H. Vanleer, E. F. Cheatham, Dr. W. WE LEAVE FRANKLIN. Went down to the Depot Thursday morning to wait for the train from Nashville. Very chilly morning, with lowering clouds of ladies, some of them with light-colored dresses and white bonnets. Thought they ought to stay at home, but did n't like to tell them so, and suffered them depart. Cars very full. Had to ride in the baggage car. Lit a cigar and went in. Found the first impolite Adams Express Messenger the Company has ever introduced into this country. Was freshly imported from some section where gentlemen are not indiginous to the soil, and did n'tknow bow to behave. Wanted to tell him so, but being thinly armed, having nothing in fact but a brace of repeaters, a twelveinch Bowie-knife and a hickory stick, concluded to let him be told by somebody else. We are sware that in the selection of empany, and promise to say nothing more than half an hour's attendance. about it. Under this state of feeling,

WE REACH BOWLING GREEN. By which time the weather had begun to clear up, and the sun came out brightly. Found the attendance at the Fair quite re- cation on Saturday night last, at Cowan's spectable, one side of the amphitheatre being Hall. Not a great deal of stock in the ring. The general impression was, that up to that time the Fair was rather a failure -- 10t equal to the county fairs held at the same place. Noticed that about half the ladies on the ground, both old and young, were these nan bonnets, or "scoops," such as the little girls of Nashville hide their sweet little faces in when they go to school.
